The battle is not

God's

pages 1,8,9

“...Be not afraid nor dismayed by reason of this great multitude; for the battle is not yours but God's.” II Chron 20:15

A few years ago, in late December while America was recovering from Christmas, and partying in the New Year, the then President Obama was passing into law the National Defence Bill (NDDA). Many who looked through the ambiguity and small print of this bill believed it destroyed our often taken for granted liberties. Not one in a hundred realise that the foundation of our liberties stem from Habeus Corpus. This term is Latin for "bring forth the body." During the Dark Ages, our ancestors who protested against the crimes and errors in the church were being jailed without charge nor trial. This was the consequence of the union of church and state. The engine that carried out this cruel work was called the inquisition. Numbers known only to God were cast into jail or dungeon where they rotted or starved to death. They had no companion but Christ, and the recording angels. God's long-suffering before the on-looking universe, was being vindicated by His persecuted saints. This was the patience of the saints, who endured to the end. They knew that eternal life was the prize, and they were not to fear those who could kill the body but not the soul. These terrible injustices in the name of Christ were eventually overthrown by an indignant protesting population. They had read the Bible for themselves, and could see the errors of the established Church. The due process of law now prevented a man being thrown into jail without charge or public trial. This was prevented by the law Habeus Corpus, which now prohibited a man being jailed without trial. Now a suspect (the body ie Corpus) had to be brought forth and charged with a specific crime, or let go. Though unrecognised by most, it has been the safeguard of our liberties through the recent centuries. We are told that Rome will regain her lost supremacy (GC 581), and all the world would wonder after the beast (Rev. 13:3). President Barack Obama, whether he knew it or not, was helping to fulfil the sure Word of prophecy (II Peter 1:19). He was a pliant tool in the hands of popery and the financial elite. Most Seventh-day Adventists think they are going from snoozing in the pews direct to Heaven. Most world loving professed Christians are unaware of the storm, relentless in its fury, which is about to break upon America and then the world. We are warned of soon coming events. Every earthly asset will be stripped from us (DA121&122). The Church, like the Waldenses, will witness in sackcloth (4T 594). Many will be brought before the leaders of this world to witness for their faith (Maranatha 252 & 253). Many will be jailed (Maranatha 195). Many will give their lives as martyrs (Maranatha 199). There will be a return to primitive godliness not seen since apostolic times (GC 464). Our greatest enemies will come from professed Seventh-day Adventists (GC 606 & Maranatha 196). It is timely to ask the question are we preparing and getting ready for what is about to break upon us? It is Satan's desired plan to so arrange matters that Seventh-day Adventists will capitulate when their food source, and shelter are stripped from them when the Sunday Law comes in (KJV-SOP pg 1057). The Food Safety Bill from 2014 & 2016 are part of a world wide plan to control people who desire to grow their own food. At this time we must realise that man's extremities are God's opportunities, and His biddings are also His enablings. He has told us that He will not forsake nor leave us. We must believe this with the faith of a little child.

Seventh-day Adventist Signs of the Times

Peter Henham

We read in Matthew 24 of the signs for all the world, that tell us so clearly that Jesus is soon to come. Mat 24:5-14 "For many shall come in my name, saying, I am Christ; and shall deceive many. And ye shall hear of wars and rumours of wars: see that ye be not troubled: for all these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet. For nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom: and there shall be famines, and pestilences, and earthquakes, in divers places...But he that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved. And this gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations; and then shall the end come." In Revelation we read of the great sign of the deadly wound being healed. Through all these signs people can see there's something happening

"So likewise ye, when ye shall see all these things, know that it is near, even at the doors." Matthew 24:33.

As the world sees these events, they will have sufficient proof to know that God is true and He is coming back according to His word.

God has also given us signs for Seventh-day Adventists. To see this thought from the Word of God, let us open the Scriptures to 1 Corinthians 10:11 "Now all these things happened unto them for ensamples: and they are written for our admonition, upon whom the ends of the world are come." It is interesting that for ancient Israel wandering through the wilderness, they had a going home to look forward to, just like we do. So in their journey, we can begin to see many parallels, that help us see the Advent Journey in a very clear Biblical light.

1. Rejecting the Spirit of Prophecy

Numbers 16:1-5 "Now Korah, the son of Izhar, the son of Kohath, the son of Levi, and Dathan and Abiram, the sons of Eliab, and On, the son of Peleth, sons of Reuben, took men: And they rose up before Moses, with certain of the children of Israel, two hundred and fifty princes of the assembly, famous in the congregation, men of renown: And they gathered themselves together against Moses and against Aaron, and said unto them, Ye take too much upon you, seeing all the congregation are holy, every one of them, and the LORD is among them: wherefore then lift ye up yourselves above the congregation of the LORD? And when Moses heard it, he fell upon his face: And he spake unto Korah and unto all his company, saying, Even to morrow the LORD will shew who are his, and who is holy; and will cause him to come near unto him: even him whom he hath chosen will he cause to come near unto him."

If old Israel revolted against the authority of God's prophet before entering the promised land, and we are told these are ensamples for us, might one see that this will happen before His Remnant people come to the heavenly Canaan?

"One thing that is certain and is soon to be realized - the great apostasy, which is developing and increasing and waxing stronger, will continue to do so until the Lord shall descend from heaven with a shout. We are to hold fast the first principles of our denominated faith, and go forward from strength to increased faith..."

We may be strengthened and confirmed in the past experience that holds us to the essential points of faith which have made us what we are, Seventh-day Adventists." Special Test Series B No 7, 56-57.

"The facts relative to Korah and his company, who rebelled against Moses and Aaron, and against Jehovah, are recorded for a warning to God's people, especially those who live upon the earth near the close of time." Spiritual Gifts Vol 4A (1864) 37.

"Very adroitly some have been working to make of no effect the Testimonies of warning and reproof that have stood the test for half a century. At the same time, they deny doing any such thing." Special Testimonies Series B No 7, 31.

Sadly, as a people we are fulfilling this with our disregard of so many of the instructions that our God has given to His remnant people. The amazing thing is that even while so many read and quote her work, they ignore and even fight against some of the most primary instructions that she has given to us as a people. II Chronicles 20:20 "...Believe in the LORD your God, so shall ye be established; believe his prophets, so shall ye prosper."

2. Giving up The Pillars & Standards

"Seventh-day Adventists have been chosen by God as a peculiar people, separate from the world. By the great cleaver of truth He has cut them out from the quarry of the world and brought them into connection with Himself. He has made them His representatives and has called them to be ambassadors for Him in the last work of salvation. The greatest wealth of truth ever entrusted to mortals, the most solemn and fearful warnings ever sent by God to man, have been committed to them to be given to the world." 7T 138.

"In a special sense Seventh-day Adventists have been set in the world as watchmen and light bearers. To them has been entrusted the last warning for a perishing world. On them is shining wonderful light from the Word of God. They have been given a work of the most solemn import--the proclamation of the first, second, and third angels' messages. There is no other work of so great importance. They are to allow nothing else to absorb their attention." Last Day Events 46.

Giving up the doctrines (Truth) that formed us as a people is so serious a concern, as it is through these doctrines that God makes clear the narrow path way that He has marked out to get us to heaven. Move these markers, and it can have eternal consequences both for us personally and also for the world that God wants to have warned before the last great crises comes upon all.

The Ancients Were Held Accountable

What we find in the book of Ezekiel, is that the ancients of Israel were then secretly leading God's people into error. "And he said unto me, Go in, and behold the wicked abominations that they do here. So I went in and saw; and behold every form of creeping things, and abominable beasts, and all the idols of the house of Israel, pourtrayed upon the wall round about. And there stood before them seventy men of the ancients of the house of Israel, and in the midst of them stood Jaazaniah the son of Shaphan, with every man his censer in his hand; and a thick cloud of incense went up. Then said he unto me, Son of man, hast thou seen what the ancients of the house of Israel do in the dark, every man in the chambers of his imagery?..." Ezekiel 8:9-12. Then of course the following chapter is the chapter of judgment that starts at the house of God. "Slay utterly old and young, both maids, and little children, and women: but come not near any man upon whom is the mark; and begin at my sanctuary. Then they began at the ancient men which were before the house." Ezekiel 9:6

"We are amid the perils of the last days, the time will soon come when the prophecy of Ezekiel 9 will be fulfilled; that prophecy should be carefully studied, for it will be fulfilled to the very letter... Let these prophecies be studied on your knees before God; unless you take up the stumbling-blocks which by your own perverse spirit you have laid in the way of many who have been connected with you, God will turn His face utterly from you and your associates..." The EGW 1888 materials, Ch 158 To AR Henry.

"In the time when His wrath shall go forth in judgments, these humble, devoted followers of Christ will be distinguished from the rest of the world by their soul anguish,..." While others try to throw a cloak over the existing evil, and excuse the great wickedness everywhere prevalent, those who have a zeal for God's honor and a love for souls will not hold their peace to obtain favor of any. Their righteous souls are vexed day by day with the unholy works and conversation of the unrighteous. They are powerless to stop the rushing torrent of iniquity, and hence they are filled with grief and alarm. They mourn before God to see religion despised in the very homes of those who have had great light. They lament and afflict their souls because pride, avarice, selfishness, and deception of almost every kind are in the church. The Spirit of God, which prompts to reproof, is trampled underfoot, while the servants of Satan triumph. God is dishonored, the truth made of none effect." 5T 210.

Biography of the 14th century scholar and cleric who first translated the Bible into English.

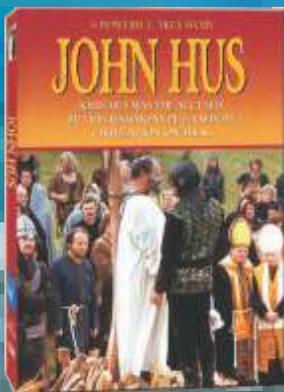

The Fanny Crosby Story

The biography of the blind Hymn writer. Fanny was a wife, mother, friend, teacher & nurse to the sick during the cholera epidemic, humanitarian and friend of Presidents.

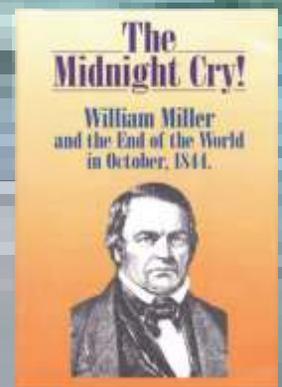

Martin Luther

This film is in black and white and retains the stirring impact for Christian audiences. A good historical DVD about the Protestant reformation.

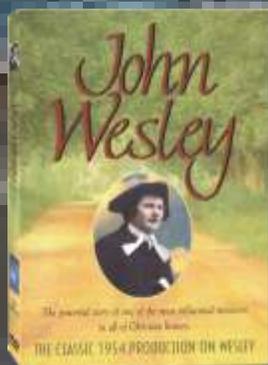

John Hus

An important chapter in the steps leading up to the reformation. This DVD is a powerful witness on what it means to stand for our faith in Jesus.

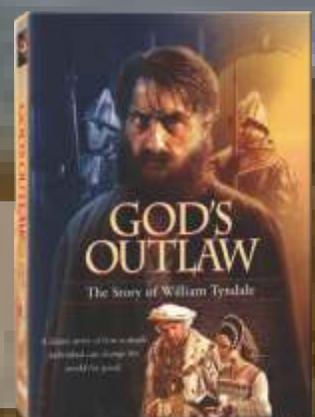

The Midnight Cry

A valuable perspective on Prophetic interpretation, for our times as "end of the world" and "doomsday" prophets increase. This is one of the most fascinating episodes of modern religion.

John Wesley

John Wesley was one of the most influential ministers of all Christian history. This old, but still potent film, provides an excellent introduction to the major events and obstacles in his life.

God's Outlaw

Today William Tyndale is known as the father of the English Bible and one of the leaders of the reformation. Experience how he lived and died as God's outlaw, an encouragement to all Christians.

The Benefits of Green Barley

Green Barley

In order to know what the best foods to eat are, we must study God's original plan for man's diet. The book of Genesis tells of the original diet given to Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden. The first diet of man was grains, fruits, nuts and seeds (Genesis 1:29). In the beginning it was contrary to God's plan to take the life of any creature for food. There was no death in Eden. The food given to man was a vegetarian diet, to which they were totally adapted. Man was not created as a meat eater. The organisms of animals who are meat eaters are somewhat different from man's. They have sharp teeth, shorter intestines which limit the factor of putrefaction, and have much stronger digestive juices.

After Adam and Eve sinned and were cast out of the garden, they received permission to eat the "herb of the field" (Genesis 3:18). Vegetables - meaning the leaves, stems and roots of plants were then added to man's diet. It is very interesting to note that right when man sinned, God added vegetables and herbs. Here we see that a loving God foresaw what was to happen and provided wonderful remedies for the diseases that are a result of sin. He gave us these remedies (plants) that can be used as a "service to man", that will bring untold blessings to the world. Vegetables are generally considered the regenerators of the body, while fruits are considered the cleansers. They are extremely important sources of vitamins, minerals and enzymes. They also contain proteins of the highest quality, which are often of better biological value than those of animal sources.

It wasn't until the twentieth century that we started chemical food processing and food production. That was when we began to refine and process nutrients out of our foods, and as a result "new" diseases began to appear. Many of these diseases the world had never seen before. Today, because of wrong agricultural methods, processing, and chemical additives, man's food has over 2000 substances to which man is not adapted, and his system is unable to handle these

Yoshihide Hagiwara

After graduating from university he (Dr Hagiwara) ran a pharmacy to support himself and his parents. For at least fifteen years he worked into the night, sleeping for only about 3 hours each night. He worked as a research pharmacist, eventually starting his own company, discovering formulas for many different creams and lotions. Later he would go back to university and study to become a doctor of medicine. He developed and patented over 200 medications and had a staff of over 700. He created the largest drug company in Japan.

His hard work seemed to pay off, having his own company. But in 1963, organic mercury was banned for sale. Having been working with it for many years he was unaware of its damaging effects. His mental and physical strength began to decline. His teeth decayed, his hair turned grey. His mind clouded up and he could no longer manage a large company. When he looked at his research team that was working with him, they too developed red sores on their noses and began to lose skin. They all had been poisoned with organic mercury.

At this time his diet was not very good. For ten years he existed on eating curry and rice for lunch and a hamburger steak at night, along with some liquor. He knew he would have to regain his health and did so by implementing a balanced diet. As a result of his failing health he lost his pharmaceutical company. Yet he did not lose his desire to find something to revitalise his health.

His Discovery

Dr Hagiwara determined to completely transform his diet using many Chinese herbs and fresh greens. His health returned and once again he turned his energies to finding similar solutions for others. He wanted to find a food that would promote good health by vitalizing the body's own power of healing. He wanted to make the powers of green vegetables as easy to have as instant coffee.

During this time he examined many different plants. He saw that plants are the primary source of all nutritional elements. He investigated all the parts of the plants - roots, stems, twigs, leaves and flowers. He considered when is the best time to harvest the plant, and what minerals needed to be present in the soil. He analysed over 150 edible green plants including chickweeds, asters, pigweeds, clovers, peas and acacias. He finally discovered the combination of nutritive elements and chlorophyll in the juice of cereal grasses - barley, rye, wheat and oats, had the most remarkable quantities.

Dr Hagiwara also believed that if he could develop a way to dehydrate Chinese herbal teas and maintain their wonderful benefits, then consumers would be able to use these readily in this modern world. He successfully invented and developed a spray that dried herbal teas in three seconds. Then he used this to dry his cereal grasses. But he developed problems. He reduced the temperature of drying to room temperature, but the product turned brown. He had problems harvesting the leaves. They too turned brown. He tried freezing the leaves but this inactivated the medicinal ingredients. The plants needed to be harvested when they were 20-25 cms long to yield maximum amounts of medicinal ingredients. He was driven to find an answer. Through trial and tribulation, he ultimately achieved a dried barley green juice powder that maintained the integrity of the fresh plant.

Many Nutrients

In our modern age, to be healthy demands strict attention to many of the foods we eat. Our bodies are under attack from chemicals and pesticides, and at the same time are affected by nutritional imbalances. Illnesses are induced by both imbalances of minerals, enzymes and vitamins as well as pollutants and both causes often work in combination.

To make an effort to maintain good health takes a commitment. It is essential that we eliminate toxins from our body and take in essential ingredients that are necessary to life. Using barley leaf powder is a very effective way to do this.

Green vegetables are not all alike. Some are more nutritious than others. Some contain pesticides, herbicides and chemicals. Foods grown in deficient soil will not give us the rich supply of minerals we need. An interesting observation was made in laboratory mice. When mice were fed on a high meat diet without grains or vegetables, they gradually became cruel and bit the hands that tried to catch them. The mice fed vegetables and no meat were tame, showing no sign of biting. Undernourishment has an enormous impact on human behaviour and I believe that we can see evidences of this in our modern society.

When the young barley plant was compared with other plants, they were seen to have certain advantages. Firstly, they were relatively free from fungi and bacteria. They are also cleaner as their smooth surface enables any foreign matter to be washed easily away. Early harvest reduces the likelihood of insect infestation. They are free from aromatic or germicidal components and have no pungent or other displeasing taste.

Many scientists today will tell you that green vegetables have cancer-preventing properties. Yet how many people actually eat these vegetables. Then there is also the problem of vegetables that are grown in deficient soil and do not have the full nutrition that they are capable of having. Most Australians do not eat enough green vegetables to experience the health benefits. Green Barley leaf powder is known to restore nutrients missing from many diets. It has been documented that Green Barley leaf powder is particularly rich in protein, minerals, vitamins, enzymes and chlorophyll. These five essential ingredients are found in Barley Leaf powder in a totally natural state.

Minerals

To maintain health we need minerals. But the human body, unlike plants, cannot draw these needed minerals from the environment or manufacture them from other substances. Our only source is in the food we eat. If we do not get them, our body will not be in good health.

To maintain health, minerals such as potassium, magnesium and calcium are essential. Of these Potassium is ranked as one of the body's most needed minerals. It is closely linked with the health of the nerves and muscles. Your blood pressure, as well as glands and hormones, depend on a sufficient supply. It is necessary for normal growth and as an alkalizing agent for keeping proper acid-alkaline balance in the blood and tissues. It aids in retaining normal osmotic pressure of essential body fluids and in using protein efficiently. The red blood cells need Potassium to effectively carry carbon dioxide (CO₂) to the lungs to be exchanged for oxygen. It also stimulates the excretion of water by the kidneys, thus ridding the body of poisonous waste materials. It also activates certain enzymes required in carbohydrate metabolism.

Barley Leaf Powder is one of the best foods to restore the acid-alkaline balance. Acidic food contain only a small amount of potassium and our environment is steadily increasing the deficiency of potassium. Hypocalcemia (reduced calcium concentration in the blood) manifests itself in bone troubles, osteomalacia, abnormal excitation of nerves or a disordered condition of the parathyroid gland. Hypokalemia (reduced potassium concentration in the blood) leads to body languor, muscular fatigue, heart troubles and cirrhosis of the liver.

A very common condition of potassium deficiency is debilitating fatigue. Fatigue may follow vigorous physical exercise, or severe mental stress or even a lack of sleep. These various kinds of fatigue share one factor - the storing of sodium and the excretion of potassium. So if we want to avoid that tired feeling, you can enjoy the revitalization power of Barley Leaf Powder.

Vitamins

Vitamins are catalysts for all living cells regulating body processes. Their presence or absence, even in very small amounts may mean the difference between good and bad health. They combine with oxygen, enzymes, minerals and hormones to form other chemical compounds. If they are not present, certain chemical reactions will not take place.

Our health problems can be reduced if these vitamins were taken in our daily diet, however vitamins are very easily destroyed by storing, scraping, soaking, shredding, cooking or even by exposure to air. For example, vitamin C contained in crushed raw radish is reduced by half after about five minutes exposure, and more than 70% of it decomposes in about 20 minutes. Vitamins B1 and B2 in foods decrease drastically in quantity when they are cooked for a long time.

Analysis clearly show that Barley Leaf Powder contains many vitamins in quantities which far surpass those of other foods. It has a generous supply of Beta-carotene. This is precursor to vitamin A and because it stimulates the production of lymphocytes and other cells involved in the body defences, it is credited with controlling infection and cancerous cell growth.

Proteins

Many people think that meat, fish, milk and dairy are high sources of protein, without giving the same consideration to the protein content of plants. Protein is necessary for good nutrition. Yet in every plant, every vegetable, every seed, every fruit, every nut contains some protein. It is difficult to eat natural food that does not have protein in it. A diet high in animal protein content acidifies the blood as much as sugar does. Acidified blood will dissolve calcium from the bones and the more animal protein eaten the more calcium is excreted.

Some protein molecules are very difficult for the body to break down and assimilate. Vegetable proteins have only half the putrefactive effect of animal protein. The protein of cereals and legumes were found to be the least putrefactive of all proteins.

Raw proteins have a higher biological value than cooked proteins. You need only half the amount of protein if you eat raw vegetable protein as compared to cooking them. Furthermore, raw protein is utilised twice as well as cooked protein. In the case of Barley Leaf Powder it is rich in lightweight protein molecules (45%) of which 90% is usable. The protein content comprises about 45% by weight of the ingredients, and represents its largest single component.

Chlorophyll

Chlorophyll is a natural cleanser and tissue healer and has a role of stimulating human tissue growth and repair. It has recognised deodorising effect on body odours and indications are that it can retard the growth of kidney stones.

When we look at the chemical structure of chlorophyll we see that the cells of the human body are much like that of green leaves. The composition of electrolytes (minerals) is much the same for both. It is very interesting to note the similarity between green leaves and human blood.

Their chemical structure is almost identical, the only difference that chlorophyll contains magnesium bonded to its structure, whereas haemoglobin contains iron. We could

The class who do not feel grieved over their own spiritual declension, nor mourn over the sins of others, will be left without the seal of God. The Lord commissions His messengers, the men with slaughtering weapons in their hands: "Go ye after him through the city, and smite: let not your eye spare, neither have ye pity: slay utterly old and young, both maids, and little children, and women: but come not near any man upon whom is the mark; and begin at My sanctuary. Then they began at the ancient men which were before the house." 5T211.

"Here we see that the church--the Lord's sanctuary--was the first to feel the stroke of the wrath of God. The ancient men, those to whom God had given great light and who had stood as guardians of the spiritual interests of the people, had betrayed their trust. They had taken the position that we need not look for miracles and the marked manifestation of God's power as in former days. Times have changed. These words strengthen their unbelief, and they say: The Lord will not do good, neither will He do evil. He is too merciful to visit His people in judgment. Thus 'Peace and safety' is the cry from men who will never again lift up their voice like a trumpet to show God's people their transgressions and the house of Jacob their sins. These dumb dogs that would not bark are the ones who feel the just vengeance of an offended God. Men, maidens, and little children all perish together." 5T 212-213.

Deeper Piety Needed

"The Lord God of Israel demands an altogether deeper piety than has been manifested by those who have been placed in positions of sacred trust in the Review & Herald office and in the management of the great work in connection with the cause of God. If these men are not under the special influence of the Spirit of God, if they do not recognize his voice, they will work after their own imagination, and will set in operation plans that will be entirely contrary to the mind and Spirit of God, and that will counteract the work of God." Miscellaneous Collections 1888 Materials 1301.

"The Living Temple contains the alpha of these theories. I knew that the omega would follow in a little while; and I trembled for our people." 1 SM 203.

"By uniting with the world and partaking of its spirit, they have come to view matters in nearly the same light..." GC 608. This quote from Ellen White, shows clearly that those who were uniting with the world, were still in the SDA faith, even though they had come to see things in the same light as the Sunday keepers, for the quote goes on to say, "and when the test is brought, they are prepared to choose the easy, popular side." GC 608. So at the Sunday Law test these Adventists finally show their true colours.

We could also think of the crises, as the people of God replaced their belief in God for the desire to follow a golden calf, or when the leaders under the very nose of Moses, led the people to bow down to Baal at the very borders of the promised land in the apostasy of Baal-Peor.

"Many will stand in our pulpits with the torch of false prophecy in their hands, kindled from the hellish torch of Satan. If doubts and unbelief are cherished, the faithful ministers will be removed from the people who think they know so much. "If thou hadst known," said Christ, "even thou, at least in this thy day, the things which belong unto thy peace! but now they are hid from thine eyes." TM 409-410.

So, sadly what we learn from Scripture and the Spirit of prophecy, is that prophecy is being fulfilled when dark forces are at work to remove the 'Land Marks', the foundations from God's people. Only those who allow the truth of God to sanctify their lives will stand in this last great trial. "In the great work of warning the world, those who have the truth in the heart, and are sanctified through the truth, will act their assigned part." Counsels on Stewardship 75.

3. Overcoming - The 3 Angels Message, & RIGHTEOUSNESS BY FAITH

The teaching of 'Righteousness by Faith' is a powerful truth and living experience to those who are seeking God with all their heart, soul and strength, but to those who want to enjoy sin for a season, it is a terrible inconvenience. Prophecy shows that at the end of time many of those belonging to God's Remnant church will refuse to walk in this narrow pathway, but still want to be called Christian - (Seventh-day Adventist). "And in that day seven women shall take hold of one man, saying, We will eat our own bread, and wear our own apparel: only let us be called by thy name, to take away our reproach. In that day shall the branch of the LORD be beautiful and glorious, and the fruit of the earth shall be excellent and comely for them that are escaped of Israel." Isa 4:1-2. Remember in prophecy a woman equals a church, and that the man is Christ. Their own apparel is like the man at the wedding feast without the wedding garment on - which is the righteousness of Christ. But in the parable, the man still wanted the enjoyment of being at the feast. This is an end time prophecy for God's people because in Isaiah 4:1 it said 'in that day' - yes it had meaning of the days of Israel facing Babylonian captivity, but we at the end of time also get to choose if we will put on the garment of Christ or would prefer to wear our own. Another parable illustrating this thought is that of the wheat and the tares. Jesus said that they would grow together in the same church. Some members will have the oil (Holy Spirit and Character of Christ), and others will not accept the joyful experience that God offers. That is the 'five foolish virgins'. God has promised that the experience of victory through Christ is available to those who seek for it. "There hath no temptation taken you but such as is common to man: but God is faithful, who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able; but will with the temptation also make a way to escape, that ye may be able to bear it." 1Cor 10:13. "Now unto Him that is able to keep you from falling." Jude 1:24. "Submit yourselves therefore to God. Resist the devil, and he will flee from you." James 4:7. The good news about Righteousness by faith is that through justification it starts right where you are. If a person finds the Lord in a hotel, or getting over a hangover out on the street, Jesus steps into this life - new in Jesus Christ, and the Father sees him as He would view the record of His own Son.

I heard a story of an American in Cuba who had been visiting. He had been arrested by the government of the day and was tried as a spy. He was falsely charged and sentenced to death by firing squad. The US & British Ambassadors were approached, but after repeated attempts to intervene, found they could not alter the sentence. On the day of the execution both the US and British ambassadors drove to the site of execution. They jumped out of their car, ran to our American visitor and wrapped around him an American and British flag. The officer who would have shot the man without a second thought, looked at those great flags and decided that caution was the better choice of the moment and did not give the command to fire. This story highlights the immense power brought to bear when the right 'Man' is on our side.

We need Christ wrapped around us, which is Justification, because all that is visible is the flag. But the next step is as important as the first. That is experiencing Christ in us, literally filling our life, guiding our steps and empowering us to resist. His righteousness which is doing His will, through Jesus' power and the indwelling Holy Spirit gives new life and strength. That is the new heart that we have been promised. With this walk with Jesus being experienced in our life, the Devil cannot defeat us. If we choose to obey we are safe, if we look away from Christ, the enemy can then gain access.

Many Won't Receive the Seal of God

"Not all who profess to keep the Sabbath will be sealed. There are many even among those who teach the truth to others who will not receive the seal of God in their foreheads. They had the light of truth, they knew their Master's will, they understood every point of our faith, but they had not corresponding works. . . ." Maranatha 232 The Pure Mark of Truth. "Not one of us will ever receive the seal of God while our characters have one spot or stain upon them. It is left with us to remedy the defects in our characters, to cleanse the soul temple of every defilement. Then the latter rain will fall upon us as the early rain fell upon the disciples. . . ." Maranatha 240.

"He who has not sufficient faith in Christ to believe that he can keep him from sinning, has not faith that will give him an entrance into the kingdom of God." RH March 10 1904.

From these parables and statements, God has made it very clear to all that keeping His commandments is a basic requirement to entering into eternal life. I think of the student who was registering for his first

The Universe is looking on as Satan chides our Heavenly Father, that if He allows him to turn the heat up on us as he did on Job, then we will forsake Christ. We must have faith to believe that if God said our bread and water would be sure, then He will keep his word before the on-looking universe. God is not a God who is far off, but is far closer to us all than many think. The following stories of God's merciful hand are to encourage us to stand in defense of the truth once given to the saints when the majority forsake us (5T 136). The coming battle is not ours but God's. In the book of Acts we see that during the Former Rain amazing things took place. The Gospel went into all the world for a witness (Romans 1:8). If we think the Latter Rain will be any less glorious than the Former Rain we are deceiving ourselves.

There is not enough books in the world to record the amazing deeds of God for His children when in need. We record just a few to encourage us all to stand for God though the heavens fall.

The first story is from the Scottish Reformation.

John Craig was an associate of John Knox. He was seized as a heretic, and carried to Rome, where he was condemned to be burnt. On the evening preceding the day of execution, the reigning pontiff died, and according to custom, the doors of all prisons were thrown open. All others were released; but heretics, after being permitted to go outside the walls, were sent back to their cells. That night however, a tumult was excited, and Craig and his companions escaped. They had entered a small inn at some distance from Rome, when they were overtaken by a party of soldiers sent to apprehend them. On entering the house the captain looked Craig steadfastly in the face, and asked him if he remembered having once relieved a poor wounded soldier in the neighbourhood of Bologne. Craig had forgotten it. 'But,' said the captain, 'I am the man. I shall requite your kindness; you are at liberty. Your companions I must take away with me; but for your sake I shall treat them with all possible leniency.' He gave him all the money he had and Craig escaped. "But his money soon failed him; yet God, who feedeth the ravens did not. While Craig was lying at the side of the wood, full of gloomy apprehensions, a dog came running up to him with a purse in teeth. Suspecting some evil, he attempted to drive the animal away, but in vain. He at length took the purse, and found in it a sum of money which carried him to Vienna."

Our next story is from Poland, and is about a peasant named Dobry, who lived near Warsaw, in the days of King Stanislaus (1764-95). Dobry experienced a remarkable deliverance by a raven's visit, in which he recognized the direct intervention of the Lord. He had fallen into arrears with his rented dwelling, and his landlord was about to eject him. It was the dead of winter, and the poor man had thrice appealed for mercy, but in vain. The next day was to see himself and his family homeless, and in the snow. Dobry kneeled down and prayed, and then they all sang this hymn. "Nothing Thy work suspending, No foe can make thee pause. When Thou, Thine own defending, Dost undertake their cause." There was a rap at the window. Dobry opened it, and a raven which his grandfather had trained and set at liberty popped in with a valuable jeweled ring in its beak. The peasant took it at once to his minister, who identified it as the property of King Stanislaus, to whom he restored it. The king sent for Dobry, rewarded him handsomely, and next year built him a new house, and gave him cattle from his own herds. Over this house door, on an iron tablet, appears still, it is said, the effigy of a raven with a ring in its beak. It is good to know that our Father in heaven is never at a loss for means by which to send deliverance from trouble or perplexity, when He sees best. And when the trouble must be borne, His sustaining, comforting grace amid trial never fails His dear ones who put their trust in him.

Our next story comes from the Czech Republic, where God's hand is seen again.

Brael, a Baptist, was turning homeward toward Moravia after visiting his brethren, when he met a judge travelling with his secretary. The judge nodded and passed on, but the secretary questioned Brael, and soon found that the stranger would not deny being a Baptist. The judge was called back, and Brael was hauled to court and held prisoner till he should renounce his faith. For months he was kept in an underground dungeon of the castle, where clothing rotted away, and he felt his life was surely sustained only by the interposition of God. One day the young man felt the spirit of God had given him a message for his persecutors. He sent for the secretary that apprehended him, wishing him to come to him in prison. He very speedily came and asked what he desired that he had sent for him. The brother said, "The only reason is that I can not forbear showing you that, as you well know, you are the most guilty cause of my imprisonment and miserable sufferings, while never in my life did I do you any injury." The secretary sat alarmed and silent, and said not a word, except that he had been obliged to do it. The brother said; "yes the judgement of God impelled you to do it, because you thirsted for the blood of the godly; it has therefore befallen you to have brought heavy judgment upon yourself. God will assuredly visit you for it, demand it at your hands, and punish you for your sins." The secretary was silent and could say nothing, so alarmed and stupefied was he. Thus he went away. In about fourteen days he died suddenly in the night. In one quarter of an hour was he well and, then dead. In the morning there came an officer, who told him that the secretary had that night suddenly and awfully died. The fate of the secretary produced great alarm to the lord of the castle. First Brael was left to go about the castle yard for two days, that he might learn again how to walk. Then he was sent off with an officer on the road to the seaport. At one of the first inns at which they halted, the officer drank himself to sleep. With the door open, Brael walked out at liberty. Thus God on that night delivered him, and he came in peace and with joy to his brethren and the Church of God.

In 1662-64 over two thousand ministers in England forsook the state church rather than conform to the standard that they believed unscriptural. Dr. Teat, being one of these fearless worthies, was put to flight suddenly with his wife and children. He had to flee from the fury of the Irish rebels, into the night without protection. They wandered in the snow in the mountains until the child in Mrs. Teats arms was ready to die. Having no milk for the child he was ready to die of hunger. She went to the brow of a rock to lay him down, that she might not see him die; and there in the snow, out of all the ways, where no footsteps appeared, she found a nursing-bottle full of new sweet milk, which preserved the child's life.

Oliver Heywood another non-conformist minister was forced to leave home because of persecution. He mounted his horse and let him run free for he knew not where to go. After travelling for hours in winter cold, the horse turned aside from the main road, and went into the yard of a farmhouse, where Heywood asked food for his horse and shelter by the fire for himself. He said that he had no money to pay for these services. He was kindly received, and when the people learned that he was from Halifax, they cautiously asked if he knew one Oliver Heywood there. It then appeared that his horse had led him to the home of earnest non-conformist believers. They rejoiced to see the hand of God, and arranged a meeting of fellow believers, who later helped the minister on his way.

On a Wednesday, in England, Wesley was attacked by a mob that gathered outside the house where he was preaching. "Bring out the minister!" they cried. The leader was invited in, and after a few words became as mild as a lamb. He went out and brought in two others who were mad with rage, but in two minutes they were as mild as he. Then Wesley addressed the mob, and they cried out, "We will spill our blood in his defense!"

A Count who plotted against Frederick William III of Prussia, even attempting personal violence, was imprisoned. The Count had no other reading matter than a Bible, which he was in no good mood to open, as he was opposed to religion. But after a long solitary confinement, he began to read the Book. Gradually it touched his life.

On a rough stormy November night, when the mountain gales howled round the fortress, the rain fell in torrents. The Count lay sleepless on his bed. The tempest in his breast was as fearful as that without. His whole past life rose before him; he was convicted of all his manifold shortcomings and sin; he felt that the source of all his misery lay in his forsaking God. For the first time in his life his heart was soft, and his eyes wet with genuine repentance. He rises from his bed, opens his Bible, and his eye falls on Psalm 50:15: "Call upon Me in my day of trouble. I will deliver thee, and thou shalt glorify Me." This word of God reaches to the depth of his soul; he falls on his knees for the first time since he was a child, and cries to God for mercy: and that compassionate God turns not away from the first movement of faith toward Him, heard the cry of this sufferer in the storm beaten dungeon of Glatz, and gave him not only spiritual but temporal deliverance. And this is how the deliverance came, by the providence of God: The same night [of the count's surrender], in his castle at Berlin, King Frederick William III lay sleepless in bed. Severe bodily pains tormented him and in his utter exhaustion he begged of God to grant him a single hour of refreshing sleep. The favour was granted; and when he awoke again, he said to his wife, "I am thankful to God who has looked upon me very graciously. Who in my kingdom has wronged me most? I will forgive him." "The Count of M---," replied Louise, "Who is imprisoned in Glatz." "You are right," said the sick king; "let him be pardoned." Day had not dawned over Berlin ere a courier was dispatched to Silesia, bearing to the prisoner in Glatz pardon and release. The incident reminds one of the words in Esther: On that night could not the king sleep, and he commanded to bring the book of records; and out of that troublous night came deliverance to the Jews.

The few Seventh-day Adventists who will remain faithful to God, will require faith that can twist the arm of the Omniscient as Jacob did so long ago. The former rain was given by God and not the church. The latter rain is coming and it too will be given by God. The former rain turned the world upside down and the latter rain will do even more so. All around us men's hearts will be failing them for fear of what is coming upon the earth, but we are to point them to Him who said, "...Be not afraid nor dismayed by reason of this great multitude; for the battle is not yours but God's." II Chron 20:15.

year at university. As the interview comes to an end the registrar says to the young man. "We don't have many rules on campus, but we are very serious about the ones we do have." In the case of God, He has ten of them.

"A religious life once presented difficulties and demanded self denial. All is made very easy now. And why is this? The professed people of God have compromised with the powers of darkness. There must be a revival of the straight testimony. The path to heaven is no smoother now than in the days of our Saviour. All our sins must be put away. Every darling indulgence that hinders our religious life must be cut off." 5 Testimonies 222.

4. Celebration & Eccumenicalism

Our last sign for God's people is that of Baal-Peor. "And Israel abode in Shittim, and the people began to commit whoredom with the daughters of Moab. And they called the people unto the sacrifices of their gods: and the people did eat, and bowed down to their gods. And Israel joined himself unto Baalpeor: and the anger of the LORD was kindled against Israel." Num 25:1-3. One of the greatest tragedies that was to befall God's people was on the very borders of the promised land. As they were camped in comparative comfort waiting for their moment to cross over Jordan, there they were assailed by the greatest, most deadly trial they had yet faced. The challenge of Baal-Peor. What made it so deadly was the mix of sensual attraction ie the midianite woman, and also the lure of official legitimacy with the invite being sanctioned by Balaam, a recognized voice from God.

"At Balaam's suggestion, a grand festival in honor of their gods was appointed by the king of Moab, and it was secretly arranged that Balaam should induce the Israelites to attend. He was regarded by them as a prophet of God, and hence had little difficulty in accomplishing his purpose. Great numbers of the people joined him in witnessing the festivities. They ventured upon the forbidden ground, and were entangled in the snare of Satan. Beguiled with music and dancing, and allured by the beauty of heathen vestals, they cast off their fealty to Jehovah." PP 455.

Now as a people, whenever we are trialing new charismatic worship styles, we are approaching the Midianite camp where emotion rules over principle. This could be as simple as revising our old faithful hymns for the contemporary, hand clapping, swaying form, or getting the drums and rhythm going. A statement from Ellen White helps us to see how this places us in relation to the second coming of our Lord. "The things you have described as taking place in Indiana, the Lord has shown me would take place just before the close of probation. Every uncouth thing will be demonstrated. There will be shouting, with drums, music, and dancing. The senses of rational beings will become so confused that they cannot be trusted to make right decisions. And this is called the moving of the Holy Spirit. The Holy Spirit never reveals itself in such methods, in such a bedlam of noise. This is an invention of Satan to cover up his ingenious methods for making of none effect the pure, sincere, elevating, ennobling, sanctifying truth for this time." 2SM 37.

Sadly we see whole congregations start to involve themselves in modern celebration style worship. We need to remember that God is looking for those who will sigh and cry over these iniquities. In our very refusal to go along with the crowd, God sees the character of faithfulness.

Contemplative Prayer

As a further progression into celebration worship, we now have the development of the false and mystical forms of spirituality. Adventism is now confronted with the Emergent Church and its new form of prayer called 'contemplative prayer.' This method of prayer-meditation was brought into Protestantism by those Christian leaders, experimenting with the Eastern meditation and has become linked with the mind exercises of Ignatius Loyola, either knowingly or not. This form of prayer leads to a feelings based experience, that is known as mysticism. The danger, of course, is that it does produce very real experiences, because opening the mind to these avenues literally opens the door for spirit forces to come knocking. All of this confusion is a sign of the times for faithful Seventh-day Adventists, as Sister White foretold these things would be happen before the close of probation. Collectively these signs carry an urgent message to each of us individually, saying "get ready, get ready."

Like the wise virgins, let these trials not deplete us of the oil. "Who has the heart? With whom are our thoughts? Of whom do we love to converse? Who has our warmest affections and our best energies? If we are Christ's, our say the fluid in green leaves is the blood of the plant.

Natural chlorophyll is produced by naturally growing plants. We cannot manufacture or gain chlorophyll from any other source. But it is chemically very unstable when separated from the plant. It loses its green immediately upon exposure to sunlight or drying as well as losing its biochemical activity. When within the plant a solution of chlorophyll is exposed to sunlight, it completely absorbs sunlight and turns nearly black. This is the phenomenon of chlorophyll storing solar energy. Within the plant cells, the stored energy is utilised by the plant. When this chlorophyll which has absorbed sunlight is examined in the dark, it looks a reddish-violet colour. This fluorescence is caused by the release of stored energy.

Dr Hagiwara faced the problem of somehow being able to keep the chlorophyll content of the leaf without losing the nutritive benefits. The green barley leaves are harvested and very quickly after picking and are subject to low temperature drying to prevent destroying heat sensitive compounds. This process dehydrates the juice of the young leaves and it forms into a powder at room temperature within as short as 2 or 3 seconds, using a spray-drying process which has been patented in many countries around the world.

Enzymes

Modern science has made it clear that all chemical changes within the cells are performed by the action of enzymes. They break down our food into nutrients, allowing us to digest and absorb these nutrients. They enable the gas exchange inside the lungs to send oxygen to the cells. Enzymes stop bleeding, create new cells, are involved in our moving and even thinking. They regulate our body.

There are more than 3000 enzymes that can be classified into three groups - food enzymes, digestive enzymes and metabolic enzymes. Most metabolic enzymes are produced by the pancreas. When cooked food is eaten the body's enzyme supply is used for digestive enzymes. This puts a strain on the pancreas and causes it to enlarge. We need a substantial supply on enzymes in the diet.

Green Barley Powder has over twenty enzymes that include cytochrome oxidase (required for cell respiration, peroxidase (to decompose hydrogen peroxide), catalase, fatty acid oxidase (oxidises fatty acids) and transhydrogenase (helps muscle tissue in heart). When these enzymes become weak, the decomposition of fats within the body does not proceed smoothly, causing build-up of fats within the body and, consequently, weight gain. Cytochrome, oxidase, peroxidase and catalase are contained in both red and white blood cells. They can decompose toxic substances within our body. Super-oxide dismutase (SOD) is an enzyme which is able to reduce arthritic inflammation and encourage tissue repair of the heart, kidney, pancreas and bowel in particular. SOD has also been reported to inhibit the early stages of carcinogenesis.

These five nutrients work together on our bodies. Minerals (especially potassium, calcium, and magnesium), vitamins, proteins, chlorophyll and enzymes are the key to good health. Together they maintain our cells in a healthy condition and work to correct any abnormal condition that occurs. They do not like drugs, which are foreign to the body, but love plant based nutrition. Health can be maintained when enzymes work together with minerals. So we must conclude that it is only when the body has a good supply of minerals that as many as 3000 enzymes can perform harmonious metabolism.

Twenty First Century Food

It is evident that many people are suffering from many and varied illnesses that have as their foundation nutritional deficiencies. Our bodies are subject to external attacks of pollutants and internally by nutritional balance. The starting point to breaking this vicious cycle is to make a commitment to mental and physical habits that contribute to good health.

What started as a personal search by Dr Hagiwara to regain his health has given us a wonderful product that has a balanced and extremely high nutritive content, but also is easy for us to access. This has been a problem for many folk who desire the benefits of fresh vegetable juice in their diets. I am not saying do not have vegetable juices, but for those who have not the time to spend juicing and then washing up the juicer, try Barley Leaf Powder. I would class other cereal grasses such as alfalfa and wheat grass in the same category as Barley Leaf Powder, which is also known by their brand names - Barley Green or Green Barley Essence.

Ranchers Revolt as Feds Rope Off 2 Million Acres For Frog

Tiny frogs and toads used to swarm over the Sierra Nevada. Now, the government says nearly 2 million acres of land needs to be preserved to prevent them from going extinct.

California ranchers and logging groups say those protections are hurting their ability to make a living. So another conflict over the Endangered Species Act is going to court.

The California Farm Bureau and two ranchers' associations sued the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service on Monday, challenging a year-old decision to designate more than 1.8 million acres of rural California as "critical habitat" for three species of frogs and toads that are protected by the Endangered Species Act.

Altering genes of human embryos

U.S. scientists have succeeded in altering the genes of a human embryo to correct a disease-causing mutation, making it possible to prevent the defect from being passed on to future generations.

The milestone, reported in a paper released online August 2 in 'Nature', was confirmed last week by Oregon Health and Science University (OHSU), which collaborated with the Salk Institute and Korea's Institute for Basic Science to use a technique known as CRISPR-Cas9 to correct a genetic mutation for hypertrophic cardiomyopathy.

Until now, published studies using the technique had been done in China with mixed results.

CRISPR-Cas9 works as a type of molecular scissors that can selectively trim away unwanted parts of the genome, and replace it with new stretches of DNA.

"We have demonstrated the possibility to correct mutations in a human embryo in a safe way and with a certain degree of efficiency," said Juan Carlos Izpisua Belmonte, a professor in Salk's Gene Expression Laboratory and a co-author of the study.

To increase the success rate, his team introduced the genome editing components along with sperm from a male with the targeted gene defect during the in vitro fertilization process. They found that the embryo used the available healthy copy of the gene to repair the mutated part.

Pope Francis attacks conservative Catholics -- and Trump?

Under Pope Francis, the church has abandoned many of its bedrock positions on issues like divorce and homosexuality in favor of a "why not?" attitude. Francis has scolded people for being rich, sided with illegal immigrants, and suggested the church should be a refuge for the poor.

He has sidelined conservative cardinals, installed like-minded allies in key jobs, taken personal control of the Knights of Malta for defying him, and generally sent the signal that behind his amiable smile and humble talk lurks a radically liberal agenda.

The latest example of the pope's blueprint for the future is contained in an article penned by two of his closest confidantes. They believe that conservative Catholics in the United States have formed a coalition with Evangelical Protestants to push Donald Trump's agenda, which the authors call a "Manichean vision." The article, in the Jesuit publication La Civiltà Cattolica, could not have been printed without Francis's knowledge and approval.

Francis can run the church any way he wants. But demonizing conservative American Catholics is a risky business. They have deep pockets and long memories.

John Moody is Executive Vice President, Executive Editor for Fox News. A former Rome bureau chief for Time magazine, he is the author of four books including "Pope John Paul II : Biography."

WARNING: THERE IS NO SAFE GMO!

Somewhere between 80-90% of everything most people buy to eat or to feed their family or loved ones is made from, or contains, Genetically Modified Organisms (GMO), or is genetically engineered (GE) in one fashion or another, making them almost impossible to avoid ... unless you know what to look for. Scientists from across the planet have been heralding their dangers to the human physiology and the biosphere for well over a decade, to no avail.

But the bio-toxins approved for use on these Frankenfoods such as Glyphosate, present a "clear and present danger" of an increased magnitude over the GMO foods they are designed to protect. These Frankentoxins are linked to the promotion of sterility, cancer, kidney disease and a myriad of other maladies, the list being too lengthy to mention here. Glyphosate is one of the most evil Genetically Engineered Bio-toxins ever developed, and peer reviewed studies and historical data prove this out with more information to this effect being published almost daily.

The problem is you are not made aware of what is and is not genetically modified, or sprayed with genetically engineered bio-toxins in the form of toxic herbicides or pesticides, because labeling is not required by our government, or via the Dark Act so obscured that most can't even understand the process of acquiring the knowledge.
